Tray Wellington is an acclaimed banjo innovator whose genre-defying approach bridges folk, bluegrass, jazz, and contemporary roots music. Recognized for his fearless exploration of the banjo's possibilities, Tray has been honored with some of the most prestigious accolades in acoustic music, including the 2019 IBMA

Momentum Instrumentalist of the Year, and has been twice nominated for IBMA New Artist of the Year.

His artistry has taken him to stages across the world and he has been featured at premier U.S. festivals including the Newport Folk Festival, Telluride Bluegrass Festival, and Bourbon & Beyond, among many others. Tray's work has earned recognition not only from fans and peers but also from The New York Times, Wall Street Journal, Billboard, and NPR.

Tray leads the Tray Wellington Band, a dynamic ensemble that brings his compositions to life with rich instrumentation and inventive arrangements. Together, they transform Tray's compositions into immersive, high-energy performances that engage both traditional and contemporary audiences.
